A HEALTHY LIVER.

THE liver is a large gland, lying under the stomach, and is the largest gland in the body. It is covered on the upper side and concave on the under, and is composed of several lobes or divisions. Its office is to secrete bile, and to separate it from the blood. It weighs about four pounds, being the largest organ in the body. The tendency of long-continued heat is to derange the natural action of the liver, and ultimately to produce enlargement and inflammation of that organ. The symptoms, indicating liver disease are as follows:

Swelling of fulness and weight in the right side, with some enlargement and pain, particularly where pressed; pains in one or both shoulders and under the shoulderblades; distended side; yellowness of the skin, eyes, and urine; bowels irregular, loose, or costive; red veins through the eyes; sagging of the lower eyelids; breath very breathy; a bad taste in the mouth in the morning; the urine deposits a sediment on standing; generally a low and desponding state of mind; the various signs which disturb the circulation to supply the mind, and frequently a great deal of injured liver supposed to be depending.

We believe that no medicine can cure the liver unless such disturbed circulation to supply the mind, and frequently a great deal of injured liver supposed to be depending.

Every month endures a large increase in sales, and their success is attested by the quietude of the market, but it is easily explained. They are prepared expressly to relieve and cure all

"WHAT IS IT MADE OF?"
 To the oft-repeated inquiry which comes to us from the most distant sections of the world—about our MURRAY & LAMMAN'S FLORIDA WATER—
 "WHAT MAKES IT SO LASTING?"
 Is also a query often put to us. Of course we are not willing to make our formula known and all such questions remain unanswered. "Ah!" says one, "I smell."
 MONOCHROME AND LAVENDER.
 Nothing else could be so delicate, yet so refreshing. Still, it is lavender, because, we are either too lazy to deny or admit, it would be equally disbelieved. "To me, says another, HONTSUCKLE AND JAN JAMINE.
 are as plain as they can be." But to this all our only reply is in silence—pretending here, however, that if our great Germania brand is not so plain, it is because it is so good. "Would you prefer it?" "Yes, yes!" exclaimed a third, "but you cannot deceive me!"
 ORANGE FLOWERS AND VIOLETS.
 are to my sense of smell the marked and most perceptible prevailing perfume in the Florida Water. Well, well, we will not quarrel with you, contradicted as you (nearly all these flowers come from the ladies), but we simply want they don't disorder the soft and delicious fragrance of LILIES AND MOSS ROSES.
 But the truth is, that the many floral extracts which enter into the composition of the true
 MURRAY & LAMMAN'S
 FLORIDA WATER,
 are so exactly and perfectly blended together that it is quite impossible to detect the distinctive odor of any single one. But the effect of their combination is so agreeable and refreshing, that it is hard to be found any one who "never gets tired of it; the longer we use it, the more we enjoy it the more." But this can be said of all the Florida Waters.
 WATER: There are others who offer for sale fluids which they call Florida Water, but they possess none of the wonderful virtues of our Murray & Lamman's and buyers should always be particular to ask for the Florida Water prepared by

The image shows a dark, high-contrast scan of a document page. A vertical strip of lighter material, possibly a binding or a different type of paper, is visible along the right edge. The main body of the page is dark and contains faint, illegible markings that appear to be text or data entries, possibly organized in a table or ledger format. The overall quality is poor, with significant noise and artifacts.

This image shows a blank, aged, cream-colored page, likely an endpaper or flyleaf of a book. The paper has a slightly textured appearance with some minor discoloration and small dark spots, possibly due to age or handling. A dark, textured binding edge is visible on the right side of the page. There is no text or other markings on the page.
